Likely to Receive an Almost Unanimous Vote in the Latter District-How the Prince's Return to Politics Is Viewed.

[Copyright, 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, April 18.-Prince Bismarck has tacitly consented to stand a reballot in Geestemunde, but he also consents to become a candidate in the Lehe district, where he is certain of return, the electorate being almost purely Conservative. His motive is obvious. Returned for Geestemunde, as he doubtless will be when opposed only by a Socialist candidate, he will refuse the mandate, accepting that of a constituency which will return him with one accordant voice. With the exception of the Socialists, who are radiant over the poll in favor of the tobacconist, Schmalfeldt, no party is without a share in the sense of humilitation resulting from the Geestemunde election. Even the Progressists, after the first jubilation, began to show regrets. Reports from the Geestemunde district state that the Progressists, on the reballot, will vote for Prince Bismarck or abstain from voting. The members of the Guelph party propose not to vote. Half-repentant expressions from the opponents of Bismarck are accompanied in several papers with the suggestion that, now that he has got a lesson which is likely to tone down his pride, the electorate ought to recognize his services to the nation by giving him an overwhelming majority.

The satisfaction in court circles over the check of the Prince has been alloyed by the revelation of the Socialist strength. It is known that state officials actively interfered in the contest, especially in the rural parts of the constituency, using the severest pressure against Prince Bismarck. Their action largely contributed toward keeping a host of supporters of Bismarck from the polls. The number of registered voters was 29,494, but of this number only one-half voted. It was not due to lessened interest that the result reduced the National-Liberal poll 3,652 below that at the last election. If the government had refrained from using its influence Geestemunde would not have been dishonored by an event which is regretted throughout the

In the lobby of the Reichstag the Emperor is credited with the intention of dissolving the Reichstag should Prince Bismarck succeed in forming a Conservative-National Liberal coalition against the government. A general elec-tion would certainly imperil the seats of a number of Bismarckians, and a new House would have an influx of Freisinnige members, upon whom, in conjunction with the Centrists, the government could rely. The fight has decreased the forces of the Bismarck coalition, and the further certainty that in the event of a general election the Socialist part of the House will be greatly reinforced may give the Emperor

WORKING HOURS FOR WOMEN. The Reichstag will speedily disof the trades' regulation To-day's debate related to the matter of working hours for women. Baron Von Berlepsch, Minister of Commerce, opposed the Socialist motion fixing the maximum day for women at ten hours. Herr Bebel urged that longer hours had a degenerating effect upon women and resulted in en-feebled children and general deterioration of the race. Finally the bill was amended by securing for women prolonged rest hours during the working day and a short-er day for adult males.

The most important amendment to the bill introduced during the week's debate enacts that workmen breaking their contract with their employer by leaving their work without due notice, etc. must pay an indemnity based upon a ratio with their salary. The reactionary character of the amendment is emphasized by the absence of a reciprocal clause providing for the protection of workagainst unfair treatment by their employers. Though the applicathe smaller workshops, the recognition of the superior rights of the employer vitiates the character of the measure as impartial legislation. The progressive and Socialist organs justly denounce the alteration as accentuating the antagonism between capital and labor. The ceremony of nailing the new colors of several regiments to the staffs occurred today before the royal Schloss. It was a splendid and imposing function.

There were present the Emperor and Empress, all the imperial family, a number of Prussian and German princes, Count Von Moltke, Gen.

Von Kaltenborn-Stachan, Minister of War, and General Von Schlieffer. The Emperor handed over the colors to the successive divisions of the troops. The men afterwards massed in front of the Lustgarten, and the Emperor briefly expressed confidence that the honor of the German flag would always be upheld, seory of the army. After marching past, the troops returned to heir quarters, the Emperor riding at the head of the Cuiras-

In the evening a banquet was given at which both the Emperor and Empress were present, together with a number of generals. and Chancellor Von Caprivi and Count Von Moltke. The Emperor, in proposing a toast to the army, reminded his hearers -that it was the anniversary of Martin Luther's historic declaration on the Diet of Worms. It was through the Protestant reformation that Prussia had become strong. The date was important in Prussia's history, and was, therefore, elected for presenting the colors which, he trusted. would always be carried to victory, adding to the strength of the fatheriand and the renown of the army.

STILL TALKING RETALIATION. According to Vienna advices the old scheme of a European customs union, having amongst its leading aims retaliation upon the American. French and Russian tariffs, will be shortly the subject of a conference at Vienna to which Germany, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Switzerland and Belgrum will send delegates. The officials here deny all knowledge of any negotiations toward such a zollverein. The re-Berlin and Vienna simultaneously consulted the government of Switzerland regarding a commercial treaty, each acting independently. Germany intimating her readiness to renew the existing treaty. Since Signor Crispi's fall no effert has been made to induce Italy to join with Germany and Austria in a commercial alliance. So far as Germany is concerned. the existence of Article 11, of the Frankfort treaty, which secures to France whatever tariff is conceded to Austria, Belgium or Switzerland, blocks the way to a zollverein. Emperor William has interfered in the quarrel between Prince Henry of Reuss, German embassador to Austria, and M. Varesco, late Roumanian minister at Vienna. His Majesty has expressed disapproval of the affront offered by the wife of the Prince of Reuss to the son of M. Varesco. and has advised the Prince to make reparation for the insult. M. Varesco, the younger, will marry on the 28th inst. a rich leiress. The King of Roumania will attend the wedding. The Austrian archdukes, leading diplomates and other perof M. Varesco. This was bitterly felt by the Princess of Rauss, who has ceased to give receptions.

THE GAS-PUMPING LAW.

Judge Kirkpatrick Holds that the McHugh Law Is Clearly Unconstitutional.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal, Кокомо, April 18.-Judge Kirkpatrick. in the Howard Circuit Court, to-day, declared the McHugh natural-gas law unconstitutional. The case was entitled The State of Indiana vs. Elwood Haynes, defendant. being in the employ of the American-Indiana Natural-gas Company, which proposes piping natural gas to Chicago and other cities from the counties of Howard. Grant, Madison, Delaware and Tipton. The company claims to have already expenned $2,500,000 for leases, pipes, pumps, appliances, etc., and has twenty miles of mains laid twith sixty miles of pipe on the ground ready for the trenches. The gas company filed the information itself, in ouder to get a ruling from the Supreme Court as soon as possible. The case was argued on Thursday. The court, in ruling on the

The following propositions have been fully determined by our Supreme Court:

First-The power to regulate commerce between the States is exclusively in the federal Congress. Inaction by Congress will not authorize the States to legislate in matters of inter-Second-Natural gas is as much an article commerce as iron ore, coal, petroleum, or any other of the like products of the earth. It is a commodity which may be transported, and it is an article which may be bought and sold in the markets of the country.

Third-"Transportation of commercial commodities from State to State is interstate commerce, and the State Legislature can neither burden nor restrict it."

Natural gas being a commercial commodity, it necessarily follows that the transportation of it from State to State is interstate commerce; and, for that reason, the State Legislature can neither burden nor restrict its transportation.

The statute in question if constitutional must be so held as a police regulation. Our Supreme be so held as a police regulation. Our Supreme Court has recognized the doctrine that police power not delegated to the general government resides in the States as an inherent attribute of sovereignty. That the States may, so long as they do no more than legitimately exercise police power, legislate upon matters connected with inter-State commerce, upon the theory that the State has the right to provide for the safety, health and comfort of her citizens. But this doc trine has been overthrown by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Leisy vs. Hardin (original package case), where the following language is used: "While by virtue of its jurisdiction our persons and property within its limits a State may provide for the security of the lives, limbs, health and comfort of persons, and the protection of property so situate, yet a subject matter which has been confided exclusively to Congress by the Constitution is not within the jurisdiction of the police power of the State unless placed there by congressional ac-

In my opinion the natural-gas act in question, taken as a whole, cannot be considered as a poice regulation, and, further, that if it can be so considered that it is void for the reason that Congress has not given the Legislature of In-diana the power to legislate upon the subject. The act, in my opinion, is clearly unconstitu-tional, and in the discharge of my duty I am, therefore, compelled to overrule the demurrer to each paragraph of defendant's special plea.

The stock market to-day showed the same characteristics as those of the former days of the week, the dealings being confined to the few stocks in which Chicago and Boston are most interested, and the bullish feeling is now so pronounced that all bad news coming seems to have only a temporary influence, and to-day the further gold shipments and the decreasing bank reserves were powerless to check the rising tendency in the market, while some of the specialties referred to scored ma-terial improvement at the close. The gold shipments influenced the market at the opening, and prices for the first sales were generally slightly lower in consequence, while some further losses were sustained in the early dealings, but the only marked decline was in Tennessee Coal, which was affected by the protest of the stockholders against disposal of the assets of the company at a price unsatisfactory to them. On the other hand Chicago Gas was buoyant and Illinois Central as well, and these were laterjoined by the general list, in which the Northern Pacifics were conspicuous, and the preferred especially so in the late trading Among the specialties Cordage was again lifted materially, but the granger stocks and other late favorites moved with more and other late favorites moved with more deliberation. The demand was urgent, and even the bank statement failed to arrest the upward course of prices, the market finally closing active and strong at the highest prices reached, though, as a rule, the list was only slightly changed from last night's figures. Chicago Gas is up 138, and Cordage and Northern Pacific each 114c. Railroad bonds were dull. Sales, $468,000. Government bonds were dull and steady,

TRADING AT CHICAGO.

Another Lively Day in the Wheat Pit, with Prices Forced Up a Few Notches. CHICAGO, April 18.—It was a lively day on 'Change-a great day for the holders of wheat. It was a day in which the speculative giants fought a long and stubbornlycontested battle to a decisive finish The result was disastrous to the "bears," but highly profitable to the "bulls." Enormous transactions, which tremendous losses. showed up. One commission evened bought in a line of 800,000 bushels May wheat, which was sold "short" at 16c below the price at which it was purchased to-day. and some of it was bought even at 20c ad vance over the price it had been sold at. So far as known only one of the great traders, who are nearly always to be found on the "bear" side of the market, refused to haul down his colors and surrender. Cudahy, Kent, Ream, Pardridge, Bloom and Schwartz were all credited with eveningup all of their contracts. The first few minutes' trading were exciting, but merely preliminary to the great struggle of the day, which continued with gradually-increasing fierceness for an hour, May advancing about 5c in that time. Although millions of bushels were being offered at the heavy advances in prices which had immediately succeeded the opening the first few trades in wheat did not come out fast enough to satisfy the argency of the sports, who, frequently in their excitement, bid more for the stuff than it was being offered at. May started with the first sale at $1.0934, but $1.1014, $1.1014 and $1.11 were bid before any came out. Be fore the memorandum of sale could be jotted down the entire crowd was shouting in chorus bids of $1.12, and in a minute more $1.13 was paid. Reactions of 1c were instantaneous during the first half hour, but the tendency was strongly upward until 10:30 A. M., after which tired nature and the call price. which, by that time had been reached, called a halt to the advance and a respite to the tortured "shorts." The price in the meantime had advanced to $1.14, and aithough some sales were made even as high as $1.15, there were many orders to sell at $1.1412, which could not be executed for lack of buyers. There was nothing in the news of the day to account for such phenomenal strength. The "bears" appeared to take fright at the evidently manipulated appearance of the May future. Bradstreet's statement that the visible and invisible reserves on July would be down to 10,0.0,000 or 12,000,000 bushels if the present ratio of export was kept up may have helped the feeling. Late cables from Liverpool, while quoting values firmer, began nevertheless, to express opinions that the advance abroad was overdone. The marked increase in the marketing of wheat by English farmers, during the last two weeks, was also a straw in the same direction. The realizing sales by the large conservative holders here was also taken as a concession that the pace abroad had been a little too bot to last much longer without a breathing spell in the shape of a reaction. The liquidation included July as well as May, but the advance was about 30 less. May remained agitated during the greater part of the session, but gradually weakened. The closing quotations-$1.12 numerous lines. The market was fairly active, and weak during the latter part of the session, the close being 40 c lower. May opened at 57c, sold between 574c and heaviest of the season. The provision mar-

INDIANAPOLIS MARKETS. A Week of Very Satisfactory Trade, the Better Weather Helping Matters. INDIANAPOLIS, April 18 .- In m partments trade in the week closing to-day was very satisfactory in its volume, and with this strong prices have prevailed in nearly all lines. In the produce markets poultry was a little off, but eggs, butter, Irish potatoes and fruits of the season were all firm at the quotations of some days past. Lemons are scarce and tending higher. Oranges are coming in more freely; prices easy. The hide market is still rather dull in its tone at unchanged prices. The drygoods men have had an excellent trade through the entire week and prices rule steady on all lines of goods. The hardwara men report trade very active, and the same is true with dealers in paints and oils. The provision market is more active than at any time in months; prices firm on all descriptions. The flour market is in stronger position than at any time in the last three years and prices, on the higher prices for wheat, are steadily advancing. Grocers have a better trade since the country roads have become passable. Heavy groceries are moving more freely. Other markets are without feature.

The local market is in a singular position. Higher prices have not increased receipts. and there is comparatively little doing. The Journal is without its usual grain quotations, as there was no call on the Board of Trade, owing to the death of Edmund F. Gall, one of the board's most active mem-
